In the past and future if you have the almighty as your role model Every second of the day you will realise you are still in a cradle Your ego will not let you ride the high horse and get into the wrong saddle.

